

Is your company among those whose HACCP system needs to be recognized by the Global Food Safety Initiative (GFSI)? Are you looking for a HACCP referential that is recognized internationally? We have GOOD NEWS!

We are proud to announce that the BNQ has earned an interim licence as a FSSC 22000 certification body. The FSSC 22000 certification scheme, managed by the Foundation for Food Safety Certification, is now fully recognized by the GFSI so that companies like yours, seeking to be certified according to a GFSI-recognized referential, can call upon the BNQ for the audit services needed for certification.

The FSSC 22000 certification scheme is based on the requirements of the ISO Standard 22000:2005 and incorporates the requirements of the prerequisite programs prescribed in the BSI-PAS Standard 220:2008.

Please log onto the FSSC 22000 Website [<http://www.fssc22000.com>] for more information.

To help you find out more about FSSC 22000, Christine Dupuis, the BNQ's HACCP certification manager, in conjunction with the Institut de technologie agroalimentaire (ITA), will moderate two information sessions, i.e.:

“Comment compléter votre démarche HACCP pour satisfaire aux exigences de ISO 22000”

- April 14, 2010 (Saint-Hyacinthe)
- May 11, 2010 (Québec).

To register, please log onto the web site <http://www.ita.qc.ca>.
